(INDISPENSABLE FOR THE PUBLICATION OF THE ARTICLE)

- Each author is the sole owner of the literary and scientific rights of his work, and can share, right after the publication and without any temporary embargo, freely, free of charge, and everywhere, in open access, his manuscript on websites (e.g. academia.edu) or online archives or repositories, in word or in other formats, in its version originally submitted for publication.
- Each author receives from Fabrizio Serra editore the post-print editorial version of his work in PDF, licensed and on loan for strictly personal use only. This final PDF is owned by the publisher and copyrighted by the publishing house as the other PDF versions used in the various proofreading stages, as it has been edited and produced by Fabrizio Serra editore, in order to be used exclusively in its own printed and online publications. It cannot, in whole or in part, be freely shared, in open access, on websites (e.g. academia.edu) or online archives or repositories.
- Each author can download from the journal's website at www.libraweb.net the editorial version of the only first page of his article – including abstract, keywords, DOI (which will normally be active one month after publication), etc. – that can be freely shared in open access websites (e.g. in academia.edu).
- Each author can share, in open access, on websites (e.g. in academia.edu) or online archives or repositories, the post-print editorial version in PDF, owned by Fabrizio Serra editore, committing, for this use, to pay the publisher Euro 750.00 (+ 4% VAT) per article.
- Each author guarantees that the materials delivered to the publisher, including iconographic ones, are free from any form of copyright or to have requested and obtained the necessary permissions to use and publish the copyrighted material.
