

the citizens. Second Edition.

Tanev T. 2011. "Good governance. Inherited concept". Public policy. vol. 1, pp.76-112.

Clifton, J. & D. Diaz-Fuentes. 2010. "Evaluating EU policies on public services: on citizens' perspective". Annals of Public and Cooperative Economics 81:2. pp. 281-311.

CONTRIBUTORS

(in alphabetical order)

Albena Nakova is Associate Professor, Ph.D. at ISSK at BAS. Her academic interests are in the area of ethno sociology, social psychology, communities and identities, social capital, social inequalities, civil society, sociology of education, sociology of science, informal economy and innovations.

Antoaneta Getova is a Ph.D. candidate and teaches courses at the Sofia University. Her courses and work include qualitative and quantitative methods for analysis, and also media analyses.

Dimitrina Popilieva is specialist at "Communities and Identities" Department at ISSK at BAS.

Harri Melin is Professor of Sociology at the University of Tampere, Finland. His main research interests are in the area of social classes and social change studies. His recent publications focused on the Nordic model and social inequalities and class analysis in the USSR and contemporary Russia.

Kamelia Petkova is Assistant Professor, Ph.D. at ISSK at BAS. Her professional interests include the study of demographic imbalances, inequality, middle class and groups at risk.

Karamfil Manolov is a Professor, Dr. Habil. at ISSK at BAS. His research interests are in the fields of sociology of entrepreneurship, sociology of economics and sociology of knowledge, social inequalities, informal economy, and innovations.

Katerina Boneva is Ph.D. Student at ISSK at BAS.

Ken Roberts is Professor of Sociology at the University of Liverpool. His major research areas are the sociology of leisure, and the sociology of young people's life stage transitions. Since 1991 he has coordinated a series of research projects in East-Central Europe and the former Soviet Union. These have investigated how various social groups' circumstances have changed during the political and economic transformations of their countries.

Lyubimka Andreeva is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Public administration, Faculty of Philosophy at Sofia University "St. Kliment Ohridski". She works in the field of services of general interest, specifically energy services, public policy, public governance (the regulatory state), administrative systems and development.

Markku Kivinen is Professor, Director of the Finnish Centre for Russian and East European Studies at University of Helsinki. He studies the impact of cultural and structural aspects in the East European transition. He has published extensively on social classes and on Russian studies both in the West and in Russia.

Maya Keliyan is Professor, Dr. Habil. at ISSK at BAS. Her main academic interests are in the area of social stratification, middle classes, and local communities studies. She published four monographs and many articles on changes in middle class consumption patterns and local communities lifestyles in Bulgaria, Japan, China and Taiwan in comparative perspective.

Nataliya E. Tikhonova is Professor, Dr. Habil. at Institute of Sociology of the Russian Academy of Sciences and at National Research University at Higher School of Economics, Moscow. She published over 400 papers and 4 monographs in the area of social stratification of Russian society and social and socio-cultural modernization of Russia.

Raimo Blom is Emeritus Professor at the University of Tampere, Finland. He has published widely on the following research fields: class theory, research of state and hegemony, research of social associations and networks, as well as on knowledge work, social capital, and trust.

Romeo Popiliev is Professor, Dr. Habil. and Head of the Theater Department in the Institute of Art Studies at BAS. He works on the field of theory and history of theatre and he has published five books in the area.

Rumiana Stoilova is Professor, Dr. Habil. in Sociology and Director of the ISSK at BAS. Her research interests are in the academic area of social classes and social stratification, social inequalities, gender studies, education, sociology of knowledge, ecological problems and environmental studies where she has numerous publications.

Sergey Rozhkov is Associate Professor, Ph.D. at Department of "Communities and Identities" at ISSK at BAS.

Svetlana Stamenova is a Research Fellow, Ph.D. at the ISSK at BAS. Her current research interests include the Balkan history and area studies, post-communist transformation, political culture and political support.

Tanya Nedelcheva is Professor, Dr. Habil., Head of the "Communities and Identities" Department at ISSK at BAS.

Valentina Milenkova is Professor, Dr. Habil. of Sociology at South West University "Neofit Rilski", Blagoevgrad. Her research interests are focused on social inequalities and mobility, social significance of education, educational policies.

Vladimir Daskalov is Ph.D., former researcher at Bulgarian Academy of Sciences. Currently he is a journalist at Bulgarian National Radio. His research interests are in the area of philosophy, methodology and political science.

Yulian Borisov holds a bachelor degree in Sociology from Sofia University and is a student in the New Bulgarian University. He has worked as research analyst both for private and civil organizations.